No. 102 – Non-prescription light

The Voronoi Clinic in Athens/GR

Text: Helen Brasinika, Jo-Eike Vormittag, Joachim Ritter

Every part of the body is composed of various types of cells and they have a special relationship to light. They emit light. In some cases very low levels of light, but it helps them to communicate with one another, to gain and pass on essential information and to control biological processes. In the Voronoi Clinic in Athens/GR, the interior design is a creative expression of this very aspect.
